Filelister Activation Code is an intuitive and handy software, which enables you to generate reports of the folders' contents. The software can easily scan the selected directory and identify all the files contained within it and its subfolders. It can generate detailed lists, including file names, extensions, date of creation, size and other parameters. Easy to use, simple interface Filelister features a simplistic and effective interface, which complements the handiness of its functions. It is capable of creating profiles, in which you may set the output format of the report, its layout, file type filters, columns order, sorting rules and opening options. Moreover, the reports can be created in a temporary folder and viewed when the process is finished, or saved in a local folder and opened later. In other words, you may save a temporary or permanent file of the directory report. You may create several such profiles and assign custom titles. The profile does not include the name of the specified folder, which means you can apply a certain profile to any folder in your computer. The report is generated instantly, according to the preset configuration: in.TXT or HTML format, as temporary or permanent file. Determine file filters You may decide whether or not you wish to include a list of the subfolders content or hidden files in your report. Additionally, the report can be a general one or list only files of a specified type: audio, document, compressed files, video or custom configuration. The file extensions are mentioned in the field below. The column list can include number, path, filename, extensions, size, creation time, date, last access or last modification. Moreover, you can set the software to automatically sort the listings according to the specified criteria.
