Sunday, May 13, 2013 Recession? Not yet it seems. There's a word for what many were expecting to happen and it's not recession. Recession is a contraction in economic activity but a word describing that situation hasn't been coined yet. It is difficult to say what is going on since it depends on which industry is the main driver. Bitcoin is one of those of the driving industries and the upward trend in bitcoin seems to be matching the signs that things are looking up. These signs are based on various metrics like trust in the platform and digital currencies themselves. Bitcoin, in its creation, is based on trust and this is reflected in its value. The bitcoin blockchain itself is
