The influences of ionic and polyelectrolyte multilayers on the cross-reactivity of each other were investigated by means of quartz crystal microbalance with dissipation (QCM-D) and circular dichroism (CD). The electrochemically deposited poly(acrylic acid) (PAA) and poly(allylamine hydrochloride) (PAH) were used as ionic multilayer and polyanion/polycation bionic multilayer, respectively. The PAA ionic multilayer formed on gold electrode resulted in the change of the conformations of both PAH polyanion and PAA polycation in both subphase at the interface and in the bulk solution. The PAH/PAA bionic multilayer formation on gold electrode also resulted in the changes of the conformations of polyanion and polycation. These effects are schematically illustrated. Bryan's personal favourite is the lightest and most cost effective option, the InfiniTap 1200. It has the advantage of being USB powered, so you can charge it without an external power supply (he's using one of the only two USB plugs he's got in his house at the moment). The 1200 watt rating is also a nice consideration since he sometimes uses the pump while he's at work which doesn't provide much assistance - he mainly uses the 1200 while he's working out on his front lawn. When should you look at an alternator? The rule of
